Getting Published

At Environmental Protection, our No. 1 priority is to provide accurate and relevant news and analysis to help our readers excel on the job. If you have some industry-related information to share (news leads, feature articles, opinions), please follow this simple three-step process:

1. Contact Jerry Laws with your query
Go to www.eponline.com (contact us) and send e-mail to jlaws@1105media.com, call 972-687-6701, or mail to:
Environmental Protection
1105 Media Inc.
14901 Quorum Drive
Suite 425
Dallas, TX 75254

2. Upon acceptance of the query, submit an original draft manuscript. Acceptable articles will introduce a new technology, provide solutions for operational or managerial problems, or offer an interesting case study. You may submit graphics at this time. We also encourage commentary.

(Note: EPonline does not pay for articles nor accept simultaneous submissions or scientific papers. Commercializing a company or product should be avoided. Commercial language will be deleted from articles.)

3. Once we have your material in hand, please make yourself available to answer the editor's questions during the editing phase. Correspondence will be maintained with one author only.

Now, the nuts and bolts:
• Copyright assignment: sign this form and return it.
• Article length: between 1,000 and 1,500 words. Please spell out acronyms upon first reference within an article. You should provide the following information for each author: job title; professional credentials (e.g., Ph.D., PE); mailing address; e-mail address; and phone number.
• Manuscript format: Microsoft Word only. Submissions should be e-mailed. For Internet security reasons, please send a query letter before submitting an article as an attachment.
• Technology issues: Please avoid the use of embedded characters, micros and/or excessive tabs within the Word document. Do not track changes in the submitted document.
• Graphics: All figures, tables, illustrations, and/or color photographs accompanying a manuscript must be identified with detailed descriptions. E-mail images must be 300 dots per inch (dpi), CMYK, formatted as a .jpg or .tif. Graphs and illustrations should be in Illustrator eps format and accompanied by a hard copy. Very large files can be uploaded onto our ftp site.

Once we've completed the process, you will see your words and ideas captured online. We appreciate any feedback regarding the process or the customer service you experienced.

Environmental Protection consistently strives for accuracy; however, there are times when we do make errors. If you notice that we have made a mistake, please contact us.
